

The Consumer & Home Office Technology Program

Engage in pre-scheduled meetings with consumer tech suppliers - virtually

One-on-one meetings that drive category success

Levin Consulting & ECRM are excited to announce a new virtual format for the Consumer & Home Office Technology Program that is taking place August 12–13, 2020.

This virtual program consists of one-on-one meetings between you and consumer technology suppliers that will focus on the categories of: Tech Accessories, Tech Hardware, Mobile Audio, IOT/Home Automation, and Small Appliances.

This virtual program allows buyers to still meet live, one-on-one with suppliers without the time or risk of travel.

100% of your meeting time is dedicated to pre-scheduled meetings with a variety of new and established vendors to discover the latest technology products.

Whether you are looking for new and innovative consumer technology, new brands, or plan to grow your product category in 2020 or 2021, this is the program for you!

2020 Buyer Participation

The Virtual Consumer & Home Office Technology Program is FREE to participating buyers. Maximize your time by viewing new and innovative consumer technology products without leaving your desk.

What are Virtual Programs?

Virtual programs facilitate product discovery, category development and planning. Each participating vendor virtually presents their innovations, points of differentiation, and origin stories to relevant buyers listening in from the comfort of their desk.

Appointments are 5, 10 or 20 minutes in length and are conducted back-to-back for 4 to 5 hours each day over 2 days. A client success manager assists throughout the entire program, in addition to meeting preparation and follow-up. Support services, in combination with the meetings, drive business success.
